

Sheffield Building Collapses Two Children Injured

The back portion of the building known as the Grand Theatre, Sheffield, collapsed this afternoon. Sensational rumours were circulated that eight children, who were playing on some waste ground, had been buried under the debris, but these appear to be without foundation. Two children were dragged out from the mass by a painter, whose name is unknown, and were taken to the Royal Infirmary. Firemen and police are now at work excavating the ruins.